Curator: Walter Keller

In this first show in Prague the new curator for Langhans Galerie, Walter Keller, presents a group exhibition running under the slogan Books and Looks. The idea is to show a dense package of information of what has been going on in international fine arts photography in the last years. As a consequence, the exhibition consists of two major elements:

Langhans Galerie presents photographs of almost 20 emerging and acclaimed international photographers on the walls. These photographers – since the start of C Photo in 2005 – were invited by the editors in Madrid and London to produce a series exclusively for the magazine.

More than 3000 printed pages in ten volumes will allow the visitors to spend more time than usual in a museum and to get an in-depth view about the worldwide photo scene: its artists, its experts, its institutions, its most important collections. Luxuriously produced, designed with highest design standards and scientifically precise C International Photo Magazine has established itself within the short time of its existence as an invaluable source as well for the devoted amateur as well as for professionals in the creative industry and in fine arts photography.

Zurich-based Langhans curator Walter Keller is co-founder of Parkett Art Magazine, Fotomuseum Winterthur/Switzerland, and Scalo Publishers (active until 2006). He is a curator, writer, gallerist, and internationally well-known specialist in fine arts photography.
